

NO QUORUM CAUSES MORE BRIDGE DELAY

County Commissioners Fail to Confer With the Contractors.

HAVE LITTLE HOPE

Board Cannot Decide on Course Now Until Middle of Month.

Inability to get a quorum of the county commissioners together to talk over the delay on the new $200,000 Arkansas river bridge with representatives of the firm holding the contract has resulted in no meeting being held nor will there be one until November 15, when the commissioners meet again in regular session.

Firm members of the Missouri Valley Iron & Bridge Co., wired a few days ago asking for a conference with the commissioners and Wednesday was the date settled upon to go into the matter fully to determine, if possible, a way to break down the large barrier being used to delay the work of construction and order the work to proceed.

When the contractors arrived from Kansas City it was found that owing to the inability of all the commissioners to be present it would be impossible to do anything and the matter has been passed up until the next regular session.

Material Arriving.

Meantime material is arriving daily for the huge structure and the beginning of actual work is long overdue. There is little or no hope that the government will do anything before congress begins its work next month.

Word direct from the war department substantiates this but there is a prevalent rumor that the committee may disregard the attitude of the war department in not issuing a permit for the construction and order the work to proceed over their heads. The commissioners are noncommittal in the subject but it is believed that something important will be done when they meet again.

The efforts of some to have the river declared navigable has resulted in the war department refusing to give a permit to let the contractors go ahead with the work as originally planned. Should the river be found to be navigable it is more than possible that the present plans will be passed up and a drawbridge installed.

LAURANT APPEARS IN TULSA TONIGHT

Spectacular Lyceum Number at Convention Hall
at 8:45 P. M.

BOY SCOUTS GOING.

All boy scouts are requested to report at the Y. M. C. A. building tonight at 7:30 o'clock. Scouts who go as troops to the Redpath Lyceum in convention hall this evening will be admitted for 5 cents each, and for that reason they are urged to assemble at the "Y" building at the hour named.

The people of Tulsa are waiting impatiently for the third number of the Community Lyceum course which is to be presented at convention hall tonight. It will be an embodiment of the grandest scenery, the most excellent music and the most unexplainable feats of magic ever witnessed by a Tulsa audience. Eugene Laurant, the man of many mysteries, who has perplexed other magicians with his wonderful performances, has in store the best of his productions for the Tulsa people who will be enabled to hear him for a very nominal price by virtue of his coming with the Redpath Lyceum bureau's list of attractions.

Laurant has with him musicians of his own selection, capable of furnishing the best and most applicable music to his line of work and class of entertainment. The Redpath people have asked him no questions about the cost when they granted him the privilege of making his stage setting what he wanted it to be. He is the king of his calling and is today starting a show which he has planned to put on for many years. The best moments of Laurant's thinking time have been devoted to this great success and the best products of his private laboratory and workshop are all centered on the one magical musical fantasia, booked for Tulsa tonight at 8:35 o'clock, an hour that will not conflict with the union reveals.

Appeals to All.

A passion for the mysterious and untamable is common to all humanity and has been through all history. The mysterious actions and words of the ancient soothsayers were very effective to enshroud their persons in gloom and win for them the esteem and even fear of their fellow men. In this enlightened age the fear and awe accompanying the magician has gone, but the worker of mystery has lost nothing in interest and curiosity of the people. The modern magician does not try to insinuate that he is endowed with some extraordinary supernatural power, but simply demonstrates their superior skill and knowledge of things obscure, for the entertainment of the general public.

Had Eugene Laurant chanced to live in the right era of the world he, in all probability, would have been the Oracle of Apollo, for today he is the supreme authority on things mystic. Twenty years ago Laurant, educated under Herman Keller, the then greatest magician, but like Plato, he proved his superiority to his teacher after a few years of active work at his chosen vocation.

Wonderful Feats.

Nobody can afford to miss seeing Laurant take the little clown out of Pandora's box and make the girl float about in the air in a hypnotic sleep. Laurant is the modern American man of mystery, and tonight in convention hall is the chance of many years to see him in his best production with his best helpers. There are ten numbers in the lyceum course after Laurant and a great saving can still be made by purchasing a season ticket to the course.
